Legado Carmenere 2022

Maipo, Chile

Region and Vineyards

The Maipo Valley, and specifically the Isla de Maipo subregion, is home to the Santa Inés vineyard, where the grapes for this wine are grown. This vineyard is located at an elevation of 343 meters above sea level, and its 27-year-old vines benefit from the unique combination of gravel soils under sandy loam and a Mediterranean climate moderated by cool Pacific Ocean breezes.

The vineyard's west-to-east orientation optimizes sun exposure, allowing the Carmenere grapes to develop rich, ripe fruit flavors while retaining a balanced acidity. The 2022 growing season featured a cool spring and early summer, followed by warmer, dry conditions later in the season, resulting in grapes of exceptional quality and intensity.

Winemaking

The grapes were hand-harvested on April 6th, 2022, ensuring optimal ripeness. The winemaking process began with 100% destemming and a five-day cold soak, enhancing the extraction of vibrant fruit aromas and flavors. Fermentation occurred at 24-26°C with ambient yeasts, preserving the wine's authentic character.

Following fermentation, a five-day maceration added structure and depth. The wine was then transferred to stainless steel tanks for settling before aging. 70% of the wine was aged in used French oak barrels, and 30% in large oak casks (foudres), for a period of 10 months. This combination of aging vessels allowed the wine to integrate its fruit intensity with a gentle oak influence, maintaining its vibrant and fresh profile.

Tasting Notes

- Color: Deep violet with brilliant highlights.

Robert Parker (RP) : 90 Points (2022)

The 2022 Legado Carmenere was produced with grapes from Maipo that fermented in stainless steel with indigenous yeasts and matured in old barrels (70%) and 5,000-liter foudres for seven months. It has similar parameters as the 2021 I tasted next to it, moderate 13.5% alcohol and good freshness, but it feels a little creamier and rounder, fruit-driven and straightforward. 13,303 bottles were filled in November 2022.
