

Massolino

The 1.7 hectare Margheria vineyard is located in Serralunga d'Alba at an altitude of 340 m asl. The soil is calcareous with a good percentage of sand, adding elegance, mineral and spicy notes to the wine.

Barolo Vigna Margheria 2020

Piedmont, Italy

Traditional in style yet fresh, structured and accessible. The sandy soils lend fruitiness and elegance to the resulting wine and the combination of traditional vinification and modern technology creates a wine which is not only accessible in its youth, but will also age extremely well. The acidity and tannins characteristic of the Nebbiolo grape are tempered by Massolino's winemaking skills, producing a wine with wonderful liquorice and rose petal aromas, typical of great Barolo, together with soft, ripe fruits.

Vineyards:

The 1.7 hectare Margheria vineyard is at an altitude of 340 metres above sea level. The soil is predominantly limestone with a fair percentage of sand. The vines are 25 years old on average and are Guyot trained, with 5,300 vines per hectare.

Vinification:

Fermentation and maceration lasted for around 15 days at temperatures between 31-33°C. The wine was aged in traditional large oak barrels for at least 30 months, followed by a further year in bottle before release.

Barolo Vigna Margheria 2020

Vinous (Antonio Galloni) (VN) : 96 Points (2019)

The 2019 Barolo Margheria is a classic Serralunga Barolo. Deep, savory and wonderfully complex, the Margheria offers up a compelling mix of red/purplish fruit, sage, menthol, licorice, dried flowers, graphite and melted road tar. Muscular tannins wrap it all together. The 2019 is seriously impressive.

Wine Enthusiast (WE) : 96 Points (2017)

Wild berry, cedar, scorched earth and camphor form the nose along with spicy accents. Tightly wound and firmly structured, the savory palate also shows finesse, offering dried cherry, blood orange, licorice and tobacco framed in firm, refined tannins.

Wine Spectator (WS) : 95 Points (2017)

Taut and linear, this Barolo walks the line between red berry fruits and savory, herbal elements. Underlining it all is a backbone of iron and dense, fine-grained tannins. Put it all together and you have a nascent red with terrific potential. Best from 2025 through 2042.
