Roda Reserva 2019

Rioja, Spain

Region and Vineyards

The Rioja Alta, located in northern Spain, is one of the three subregions of the Rioja DOCa and is celebrated for its ideal conditions for producing wines of elegance, balance, and longevity. The vineyards benefit from a combination of Atlantic and Mediterranean influences, with warm, sunny days and cool nights. This diurnal temperature variation allows grapes to ripen slowly while preserving their natural acidity, resulting in wines with vibrant fruit and exceptional structure.

The soils of Rioja Alta, primarily composed of limestone, clay, and chalk, provide excellent drainage, encouraging deep root growth and low yields. The grapes for Roda Reserva 2019 are sourced from old bush vines over 30 years old, grown in sustainably managed vineyards located at elevations between 450 and 600 meters. These old vines yield small amounts of highly concentrated fruit, which is essential for crafting wines with complexity, depth, and finesse.

The 2019 vintage was marked by warm and dry conditions, ideal for achieving perfectly ripened grapes. This exceptional growing season produced wines with remarkable concentration, richness, and balance.

Winemaking

The Bodegas Roda Reserva 2019 is crafted from a blend of 94% Tempranillo, 4% Graciano, and 2% Garnacha, a composition that balances structure, freshness, and finesse. The grapes are hand-harvested and carefully sorted to ensure only the best fruit is used.

Fermentation takes place in temperature-controlled French oak vats, a method that preserves the purity and integrity of the fruit. Following fermentation, the wine undergoes malolactic fermentation in French oak barrels, which enhances its creamy texture and softens the acidity.

The wine is then aged for 14 months in French oak barrels, with 50% new oak and 50% second-use oak. This careful aging process allows the oak influence to integrate seamlessly, imparting subtle hints of spice and vanilla without overpowering the fruit. After barrel aging, the wine is further refined through 30 months of bottle aging, which ensures harmony, complexity, and a beautifully polished final expression.

Tim Atkin (TA) : 94 Points (2019)

Making the most of what Agustín Santolaya considers the best vintage since 2001, the regular Roda release marries Tempranillo with 5% Graciano and 4% Garnacha from the Rioja Alta and Oriental sub-regions. Full-bodied but not overpoweringly so, this is layered and well structured, with scented 40% new wood, serious dark berry fruit and a balsamic lift. Modern yet traditional at the same time.

James Suckling (JS) : 93 Points (2019)

Fruity and primary with rich black cherries, red plums and damsons, adorned by some coffee, black pepper and chocolate. A pretty modern, juicy expression of Rioja with a medium to full body, rounded by assertive and fine-grained tannins. Long, with some dark chocolate in the finish.

Roda Reserva 2019

Robert Parker (RP) : 92 Points (2019)

The wines are quite transparent of the vintage conditions, with the 2019 Roda being round, lush and velvety, with polished and sleek tannins and more volume and concentration, reflecting a low-yielding, warm and dry year. This is a cuvée with more red than black fruit produced with 91% Tempranillo, 5% Graciano and 4% Garnacha from 30-year-old vines fermented with indigenous yeasts and matured in French barriques, 50% of them new, the other 50% second-use for 14 months. It's a red with 14.5% alcohol, ripe fruit, measured oak and integrated acidity. (LG)
