Q Chardonnay 2020

Mendoza, Argentina

A fresh and fruity Argentinian Chardonnay, perfect for an aperitif or light meal!

This Argentinian Chardonnay is made from grapes grown on clay-calcareous soils in the Mendoza region of Argentina. It is vinified in stainless steel tanks with partial malolactic fermentation.

On the nose, the wine is expressive, with notes of white fruits, peaches, citrus fruits, and white flowers. There are also hints of dried fruits and vanilla.

On the palate, the wine is fresh and fruity, with good acidity and flavors of ripe white fruits. The finish is long and persistent.

This wine is ideal for an aperitif or light meal, accompanied by salads, grilled fish, or seafood. It can also be enjoyed on its own to appreciate its freshness and fruity flavors.

Alcohol :13,50 %

Composition: 100% Chardonnay

Q Chardonnay 2020

James Suckling (JS) : 92 Points (2020)

Sliced apple, apricot, lemon zest and chamomile on the nose. Hints of white pepper, too. It's medium-bodied with bright acidity and a fresh, mineral finish.

Robert Parker (RP) : 91 Points (2020)

There's a little more ripeness in the 2020 Q Chardonnay, which comes from a warmer vintage. It has aromas of yellow fruit and a rounder mouthfeel, still serious and austere but a little gentler and more approachable when compared with the surprising 2019. It still has moderate alcohol and very good freshness. 70,000 bottles produced. It was bottled in November 2020.
