Late Harvest 2020

Tokaj, Hungary

Region and Vineyards

Late Harvest is produced in the Tokaj region of northeast Hungary, a historic viticultural zone known for its volcanic soils and ideal climate for Botrytis cinerea development. The Oremus estate, located near Tolcsva, manages 91 hectares of vineyards at 200 metres elevation, with a vine density of 5,660 plants per hectare and an average vine age of 25 years.

The grapes - Furmint, Zéta, and Sárgamuskotály - are hand-harvested in small 12 kg crates between September 29 and October 11, after several rounds of vineyard selection. Only bunches with at least 50% botrytised berries are picked, ensuring a concentration of noble rot while retaining some freshness and varietal character. The vintage featured a wet spring and summer, followed by a warm and dry late August and September—ideal for gradual ripening and botrytis development.

Winemaking

Upon arrival at the winery, the grapes are destemmed and macerated for 4-12 hours, allowing the botrytised berries to impart their character. Fermentation takes place in stainless steel tanks over 20-30 days, preserving freshness and varietal expression.

The wine then spends three months in Hungarian oak barrels—including traditional 136-litre “Gönc” and 220-litre “Szerednye” casks—before bottling. An additional 10-month bottle aging refines the wine’s texture and aromatics. The final wine contains 94 g/L of residual sugar, balanced by a vibrant 7 g/L of acidity, resulting in a lightly sweet, silky profile.

Tasting Notes

- Color: Bright golden yellow with youthful shine.
- Aroma: Elegant and lifted, with aromas of honey, white peach, orange blossom, and hints of spice and botrytis.
- Palate: Medium-bodied and graceful, showing a silky texture and precise balance between natural sweetness and fresh acidity. Flavours of candied citrus, apricot, and acacia unfold with finesse. The finish is clean, floral, and persistent.

Late Harvest 2020

Did you know?

While Tokaj is famous for its legendary Aszú wines, Late Harvest offers a more contemporary and versatile interpretation of botrytised winemaking. It combines the noble richness of Aszú berries with the freshness of non-botrytised grapes, making it perfect for earlier drinking or pairing with a wide range of dishes. Only 24,486 bottles (50 cl) were produced in 2020.

Wine Pairing Ideas

- Seared foie gras with apple compote – the sweetness and acidity balance the richness of foie gras.
- Blue cheese and pear tart – the wine's freshness complements bold, salty cheese.
- Fruit-based desserts (citrus tart, poached pear) – the wine echoes and enhances stone fruit and citrus flavours.
- Spicy Asian dishes (Thai curry, duck with hoisin) – sweetness and acidity tame spice and umami notes.
