Serie A Malbec 2022

Mendoza, Argentina

Region and Vineyards

This Malbec is sourced from the esteemed Uco Valley in Mendoza, Argentina, where vineyards range from 950 to 1,400 meters (3,117 to 4,593 feet) in altitude. The region's proximity to the Andes Mountains profoundly influences its terroir, creating a cool climate with notable diurnal temperature variations, particularly during the grape ripening period. These temperature shifts enhance flavor concentration and preserve the wine's natural acidity, essential for a balanced Malbec.

The soils of the Uco Valley, developed over millions of years, are alluvial and highly heterogeneous, filled with deposits of stones and minerals that contribute to the wine's minerality and complexity. This terroir, combined with high-altitude conditions, nurtures Malbec grapes that reflect both elegance and vibrancy, hallmarks of the Uco Valley's unique environment.

Winemaking

The winemaking process begins with destemming and crushing of the grapes, followed by a cold maceration for 5 to 7 days to intensify color and flavor. This Malbec undergoes a classic vinification with native yeasts, fermenting at controlled temperatures of 25 to 27°C (77°F), which highlights the fruit's purity and complexity. The wine is then macerated for 20 days with regular pump-overs and delestages, ensuring an ideal extraction of tannins and flavor.

Part of the wine is aged in French oak barrels, which adds subtle layers of complexity and structure without overpowering the fruit's natural expression. This careful combination of techniques results in a 100% Malbec with balanced acidity and a soft, approachable character, achieving 14% alcohol, 5.7 g/L total acidity, and a pH of 3.62.

The Serie A line was one of Zuccardi's early initiatives to celebrate the diversity of Argentina's wine regions. The name "Serie A" stands for "Argentina Series," reflecting the brand's commitment to representing the country's most expressive grape varieties and regions along the Andes Mountains.

Wine Pairing Ideas

- Argentine Asado (Grilled Meats): The wine's fruitiness and acidity complement the rich, smoky flavors of grilled meats.
- Roasted Duck with Cherry Sauce: The ripe cherry notes in the wine enhance the fruitiness of the dish, while its acidity cuts through the richness of the duck.
- Stuffed Bell Peppers: The wine's herbal undertones and balanced acidity pair well with the earthy flavors and spices in stuffed peppers.
- Hard Aged Cheeses: The structured tannins and fruit profile make it an ideal match for nutty, aged cheeses like Manchego.

Robert Parker (RP) : 92 Points (2022)

The varietal Serie A range includes wines from the "Argentinean" varieties, and the star of this range is, of course, the 2022 Serie A Malbec. Here they search for typicity from Valle de Uco, with freshness and flowers, red rather than black fruit, nice tannic structure and purity; they are not looking for complexity or limestone but varietal character, at which this excels. This has juiciness and structure and is fine-boned. It is very different from the Bonarda in this range.

James Suckling (JS) : 92 Points (2021)

Fresh black cherries and blueberries with some violets and dried herbs. A medium-to full-bodied malbec that is all about primary fruit and some raw spice. Not a flattering wine, but rather pure and nervy with fresh, linear acidity and calculated tannins.

Decanter (DCT) : 91 Points (2020)

Perfumed and inviting with a nose of herb, black pepper and violet petal, palate of vibrant acidity, plum and textural tannins.
