Hunter Valley Semillon 2024

Hunter Valley, Australia

Region and Vineyards

Hunter Valley lies 200 km north of Sydney at 32-33°S, a warm, humid zone where summer rainfall and late-season Pacific storms shape its distinctive picking window. Afternoons can be hot, but sea breezes and cloud cover temper ripening; the region often starts and finishes harvest earlier than anywhere else in Australia. Soils range from sandy alluvials on flats to clay loams and pockets of red-brown volcanic material on the lower slopes.

Tyrrell's draws this cuvée from selected Hunter parcels, many dry-grown with an average vine age around 40 years. The style was forged by early picking to retain acidity, yielding low-alcohol, bone-dry Semillon that begins citrus-pure and gains toasty, honeyed complexity with age.

Winemaking

Grape variety: 100% Semillon. Fruit is machine-harvested in the cool of night, then gently pressed and fermented in temperature-controlled stainless steel. A short period on fine lees adds subtle mid-palate texture while preserving cut and clarity. Most contributing vineyards are dry grown.

The house approach for Hunter Semillon is deliberately minimalist: no oak, no malolactic, bottled young to capture vibrancy. The 2024 sits at 11.5% vol., true to the classic, racy Hunter profile and designed for immediate enjoyment, though short- to mid-term cellaring will reward.

Tasting Notes

- Color: Pale straw with green glints, crystalline clarity.
- Aroma: Lime zest, lemongrass and cut fennel, with hints of white peach, talc and wet stone.
- Palate: Light-bodied, very dry, and laser-focused; piercing citrus and river-pebble minerality glide on brisk acidity, finishing long and saline with a gentle pithy bite.

Hunter Valley Semillon 2024

Did you know?

Tyrrell's is the guardian of some of the oldest Semillon vines in the valley and created the revered Vat 1, a wine named among Decanter's International Wine Legends—proof of the region's unique capacity to turn a modest grape into something profound.

Wine Pairing Ideas

- Sydney rock oysters - salinity and lemon lift mirror the wine's citrus and minerality.
- Tempura prawns - crisp batter and sweet shellfish meet zesty acidity; palate stays refreshed.
- Thai chicken larb - lemongrass, lime and herbs echo the wine's aromatics without clashing with oak (there isn't any).
- Goat's cheese salad - tangy creaminess is cut cleanly by the wine's spine of acidity.
